

FACT SHEET

Behavior Technician Level One Certificate Program (BTL1)

Ensuring a qualified, competent, and legally defensible workforce

This document is intended to provide general guidance for agencies using the Behavior Technician Level Certificate Program as a personnel credentialing mechanism for behavior technicians who are providing supervised Applied Behavior Analysis Treatment for individuals diagnosed with Autism and Related Disabilities. The BTL1 Program is based on a comprehensive Job and Practice Analysis of the Behavior Technician role in the behavioral health field. Due to the rigorous and robust components of this credentialing program and third party oversight, the BTL1 is setting precedence for ensuring behavior technicians are properly trained, educated, assessed, supervised, and credentialed. There is currently no other credentialing mechanism which requires third party oversight of the education and training components of the behavior technician.

Overview of the Behavior Technician Level One:

The BTL1 will prepare candidates with a strong basic foundation in the basic concepts and principles of applied behavior analysis and positive behavior approaches within the context of Autism and related disabilities. The BTL1 program provides the foundation for the next steps in advanced education and training in ABA and Autism. Four hours of this program are focused on Ethics and Professional Behavior. The BTL1 is an ANSI Accredited Certificate Program and approved for 3 graduate semester credits through an accredited University*. ANSI Accreditation provides certificate program developers and certificate issuers guidelines for quality program development and administration and forms the foundation for a recognition and accreditation system that enables consumers, employers, government agencies, and others who rely upon a skilled workforce to distinguish between qualified workers and those with fraudulent or less-than-quality credentials.
